

SIPG

Master in Public Policy and Governance (MPPG)

OVERVIEW

South Asian Institute of Policy and Governance (SIPG)
North South University

South Asian Institute of Policy and Governance (SIPG) of North South University, is the only and pioneering institute with a regional focus on policy and governance in Bangladesh. The Institute started its journey in 2008 as a Public Policy and Governance Program (PPG) at North South University intending to cater to knowledge in the broader field of policy, governance, and public administration. In 2018, after a decade, the PPG program upgraded to a full-fledged Institute to facilitate the academic program, and regional research on various issues related to policy regimes, governance challenges, and discourses in the context of South Asia.

SIPG offers a thesis-based international master's degree program on Public Policy and Governance (MPPG). MPPG is a unique master's degree program in South Asia that provides education and hands-on experience in public policy and governance to professionals mostly from the civil service of Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, and Nepal. The program has received recognition and acceptance from regional governments and donors. Till 2022, from 10 batches more than 170 students have graduated with MPPG degrees who are young civil servants and professionals from Bangladesh and other South Asian and South East Asian countries like Bhutan, Nepal, Sri Lanka, and Malaysia. In 2021 SIPG also commenced the one-year Executive Masters in Policy and Governance (EMPG) for professionals from Bangladesh.

MPPG aims to teach students about policy and governance issues related to government and non-government institutions. MPPG alumni from Bangladesh, Nepal, and Sri Lanka have been appointed or posted in various government ministries, higher education institutions, civil administration, training institutes for civil servants, and national and international NGOs.
